Classification entails classifying products into correct tariff codes to determine the duty Liability. Failure to classify products correctly will not only involve increased duty liability but will also affect a company's product costing. There is a possibility that wrong classification of goods might infringe into certain customs legislation and attract customs audit and investigations leading to substantial claims. A better understanding of the Harmonized Coding System and how classification of goods is done based on the General Interpretative Rules (GIR Rules) will prevent potential problems in the future.

Participants will be able to understand the structure of the Harmonized System and what avenues are available if businesses are not agreeable with tariff codes decided by the officers of Royal Malaysian Customs Department (RMCD).

HOW WILL YOU BENEFIT :

- ✓ Participants will understand the nature, concepts and regulations related to classification of goods
- ✓ The difference between HS Code and AHTN code and its significance.
- ✓ Understand the rules of classification and gain an insight into how goods are normally classified to decide not only on duty liability but also whether the goods are subjected to anti-dumping duties and / or import licenses
- ✓ Appeal and review process available to businesses in the event they are aggrieved by the decision of DG on classification
